Biographical / Historical Note:

Joseph M. Overfield was born on April 7, 1916 in Buffalo, New York and grew up in this city.

He was a 1934 graduate of Lafayette High School, where he was a standout second baseman on the baseball team. He then attended the Buffalo Collegiate Center, earning a two-year certificate and taking further evening courses at the University of Buffalo. He joined Monroe Abstract Corp., now Stewart Title Insurance Company, in 1937, retiring as a vice president and head of the Buffalo office in 1983. He served in the Army Air Force in World War II, seeing duty as a weatherman in India.

Attending Buffalo Bison baseball games as a boy, Overfield combined his love of baseball and history in 1946 when he came across an 1878 Buffalo Bison baseball balance sheet in Erie County Hall. He published his first baseball article in the Buffalo Evening News in 1953. His many articles have been published in local newspapers, The Sporting News, Baseball Digest, Buffalo Bison baseball club publications, contributions and research for the original Baseball Encyclopedia, and his own 1985 book, The 100 Seasons of Buffalo Baseball.

Overfield was a director and secretary of the community owned Buffalo Bisons from 1956-1961 and served as team historian. He was a charter member of the Buffalo Baseball Hall of Fame Committee and was himself inducted in 1994. He was a member of the Society for American Baseball Research (SABR) and was honored with the SABR Salute in 1986. He also contributed articles to various SABR publications and provided research for the SABR two-volume Minor League Baseball Stars.

Overfield published a church history of the Lafayette Avenue Baptist Church, where he was a longtime member (Years of Trial and Triumph: The Story of the Buffalo Baptist Association) and two works that dealt with family history (The Wreck of the Hudson; The Civil War Letters of Private George Parks). He received The Owen B. Augspurger Local History Award from the Buffalo and Erie County Historical Society (now the Buffalo History Museum) in 1994.

Overfield and Clara Schurr were married in 1941. She suffered from multiple sclerosis and was hospitalized for the last 15 years of her life, dying in 1992. Overfield visited her daily during this period. Joseph Overfield died at the age of 84 on July 20, 2000.

Scope and Content Note:

This collection consists of research materials and articles written by Joseph Overfield primarily, though not exclusively, related to Buffalo Bison baseball history: the players, the teams, the front office personnel and the leagues in which the ball club participated. There is also some research material concerning other baseball events or personalities, including local, non-professional baseball.

The boxes also contain: original newspaper and magazine article clippings; correspondence generated in the research process; baseball scorebooks and scorecards; baseball cards.

There are three boxes of photographs of individuals, baseball parks and related baseball scenes, as well as a box of oversize photographs and drawings of baseball teams and players. There are also two boxes (19, 20) of legal papers related to Buffalo baseball and non-Buffalo baseball matters.

The final box (21) contains non-baseball items, including three folders of Ray Nagel articles and eight folders containing Buffalo and other Western New York Baptist history notes, newsletters and correspondence.

Arrangement:

This collection had been already sorted into specific boxes and folders when it came under a further processing effort by Howard Henry (2011). The integrity of such assortment was essentially retained. Mr. Overfield's research materials for specific subjects and articles were concentrated together for ease of future research on these topics. Photographs were concentrated primarily into the first three boxes (players, ball parks) in the collection and in the 22nd (oversize) box of teams and drawings.
